

Gazette & Farmers' Journal.

BALDWINVILLE, ONONDAGA CO., N. Y., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1898.

—Wednesday afternoon of last week a horse driven by Misses Allie and Gussie Start was left for a short time hitched to a post in front of the residence of their uncle, Joseph McCarthy, on Gaston street. Just before six o'clock the young ladies came out of the house to go home. Miss Gussie was ahead, and leaving her sister to untie the horse, got into the wagon. Just as Miss Allie was approaching the horse, the animal commenced to plunge violently and, despite the efforts of both young ladies to pacify it, succeeded in breaking the headstall and becoming free. Miss Allie was dragged to the ground under the horse, the wagon passing over her as the animal started to run. The wagon was overturned in the yard, thereby throwing Miss Gussie to the ground. The animal freeing itself from all encumbrances ran to the home of Jerry Holland where it was captured. Although both ladies were somewhat bruised and strained no serious injury was sustained, though Miss Gussie Start was unable to resume her school duties until Monday, her place being filled from the training class.